- Past performance is not an indicator of future performance.

Investment objective

The Fund provides a tax effective investment for the long term and aims to provide regular quarterly payments. The Fund seeks to generate a growing income profile by investing in a diversified portfolio of high-quality companies. The Fund's portfolio aims to generate an income yield above the S&P/ASX 200 Franking Credit Adjusted Index and to grow this income above the rate of 'inflation'.

Investment approach

The Fund is managed in a tax-aware manner to benefit from franking credits, with the aim of maximising after-tax returns through management strategies employed in the purchase and sale of securities.

The investment manager relies on complementary fundamental and quantitative research, and collective insights into the current investment landscape to identify the most attractive opportunities.

Sector allocation

Performance commentary

For the one-month period ending 31 March 2022 the after fee and tax return was 3.92%.

At the stock level, National Australia Bank, BHP Group and Woodside Petroleum were the largest positive contributors, while Inghams Group, Insurance Group Australia and Amcor were the biggest detractors.

Market commentary

The Australian equity market rose 6.9% in March (as measured by the S&P/ASX 200 Accumulation Index), continuing its material outperformance over global markets.

All sectors rose during the month. Information technology was the best performer as investors bought companies that had been sold off early in the year, although its small weighting in the index had a modest impact on the overall market. Strong gains from banks and metals & mining were large contributors to the overall market, while other materials lagged.
